The Body of Another Murdered Woman Just Discovered.

IBY CABLE TO THE PRESS NEWS ASSOCIATION. London, Oct. 2 .- The corpse of a woman was to-day found in a vault on the site of the projected opera-house on the Thames Em bankment, near the Palace of the Houses of Parliament.

The head and arm had been severed from the body and the arm is missing.

instead of waiting for the solving of the bloody mystery, to wait only in expectation that more blood will be shed.

The fact that the murderer's victims have so far been women of a particular chass does not weaken the apprehension, which keeps lone women more or less indoors o' nights, and spoils the flirtations in the fog which have hitherto been a standard amusement with chambermaids out for an airing and guardsmen temporarily off duty.

Hordes of people rush to the dark, damp quarters where the murders have been committed, by day and night. The wanderers, men and women, who have always been about those streets, are there yet, having nowhere else to go. Other people, drawn by curiosity, go to see—what? They see—nothing. But now and again comes a new murder. It happened, perhaps, while the crowd was still gaping about; yet no one saw or knew of it, and the assassin has vanished as completely as one of the grotesque shadow figures made in the fog by the uncertain light from the street lamps.

The latest theory, and one having the support of some expert authority, is that the murderer is a monomaniac whose ultra-religious zeal has led him into an assassin's warfare on fallen women. If this be true, the zealot has set himself a big task, but according to present indications he has set an equally big one for the London police. It is as yet an open question whether the one task will be completed any sooner than the other. than the other.

The excitement throughout the city is fearful.

PERCIAL CARLE TO THE EVENING WORLD. LONDON, Oct. 2.—The London police are Canada if not still further off. still working at random in the Whitechapel cases. No arrests have yet been this morning, though it is not at all unlikely that a half a dozen suspicious characters may be taken into custody before night, as was done yesterday. But it doesn't signify much. These arrests are simply a sop to the public.

London is terror-stricken as it has not been for a generation, and demands that something be done. So suspicious-looking characters, and they can be found by the thousands in the East End, are taken into custody in a blundering way, held for an hour or two until they can establish an slibi, and then discharged.

With this indefinite and aimless policy on the part of the police, it is hard to tell the part of the police, it is hard to tell whether any real detective work is being done. The detention of Fitzgerald, the hanling up of the poor German who quarrelled with a woman he had met by chance and the late seizure of the mysterious gentleman with the "American hat" are proceedings which have only gone to strengthen the discredit with which the populace regards the police efficiency in this emergency.

The curious disposition to connect the crimes with an American has been carried to an absurd extreme. "An American hat," "an American medical student," an American what not! An English friend, who has travelled enough across seas to become imbued with a just idea of can what not! An English friend, who has travelled enough across seas to become imbued with a just idea of things, whispers half reluctantly in my ear that if, instead of giving such a direction to their suspicions, the London detectives would give an American directness and simplicity to their researches and investigations, they might hope sooner to strike a test which would lead them to the desired accomplishment.

Granted McQuade by the Court of Appeals.

the Opinion To-Day.

Judge Peckham Dissents from Portions of the Opinion.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.

ALBANY, Oct. 2 .- Among the decisions handed down by the Court of Appeals this morning, was one granting a new trial to Arthur J. McQuade, one of the famous New York City Board of Aldermen of 1884. The opinion is by Judge Andrews.

Judges Ruger, Earl, Danforth and Finch concur.

Judge Peckham dissents from that portion of the opinion treating of the order in which peremptory challenges should be. The dissent is directory only and not a matter of exception upon which to grant a new trial; also from that portion of the opinion treating of the rejection of a competent juror as being an error, upon which exception might be taken. He agrees upon the other matters discussed in the opinion.

Judge Gray dissents from the grounds of the conclusion in Judge Andrews's opinion, and votes for a reversal and a new trial on the ground that it was an error to charge to a jury that evidence of good character of itself did not tend to prove that a man is not gully of an offense. This error was not caused by anything in the state of the stat of an offense. This error was not caused by anything in the rest of the clarge, and being substantial in its nature, the defendant is en-titled to a new trial.

The Evening World reporter was the first to carry the news of the reversal of judgment by the Court of Appeals to District Attorney Fellows and to Recorder Smyth.

Col. Fellows admitted that he was surprised at the decision and said that he would be unable to state what action he would take towards moving a new trial of McQuado until he could see the full text of the opinions. The error held might be cured on a new trial and it might not.

He said that undoubtedly a motion would be made at an early day for the release of McQuade on bail, pending the new trial, and that the now imprisoned ex-Alderman will soon be a free man among his New York friends.

Assistant District-Attorney Temple, who signed the case on appeal, was equally surprised with his chief, and desired to refrain from expressing an opinion until he should see the opinion of the court.

Arthur J. McQuade, member of the boodle Board of Aldermen of 1884, was tried in the month of November, 1886, on the charge of receiving a bribe for voting a franchise to Jacob Sharp's Broadway Surface Railroad.

He was defended before Recorder Smyth in the Court of General Sessions by Richard S. Newcombe and Gen. B. F. Tracy, but was finally convicted on Nov. 29, and on Dec. 20, 1836, was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment at hard labor in Sing Sing and to pay a fine of $5,000.

He was taken to prison soon after and has been serving his sentence since that time.

Every effort of counsel was made to secure a new trial for their client. An appeal was taken to the General Term of the Supreme Court, which was argued in

The Republican leaders say that their party will nominate a straight ticket.

A rumor was current this morning to the effect that among the signers to the petition calling for the mass-meeting "of the People" to nominate Mr. Hewitt for Mayor, was the name of Frederic R. Condert.

An Evening World reporter called on Mr. Coudert to-day and asked him if he had signed the petition.

"I did not sign it," he said. "That's the first I've heard of it. If my name has been used it has been done without my consent."

"Then you are not in favor of Hewitt's nomination?"

"Not unless the whole Democratic party unites on him. If they do, then I am. Mr. Hewitt is an upright man, and personally I have the highest re gard for him and all that, but I do not like disruption in the party. I am in favor only of a caudidate that will be acceptable to the whole party.

"It is very unfortunate that there is a split. The Republicans will take advantage of his nomination. It is dangerous, this disruption in a Presidential campaign, when so much is at stake."

Mr. Coudert has been a prominent County Democracy man. He has presided at their meetings and conventions, and he supported Col. Fellows for District-Attorney against De Lancey Nicoll.

Bold Dash from the Prisoners' Pen at General Sessions.

Thirteen Tried to Climb Out, but Eleven Were Caught.

Thirteen prisoners attempted to escape from the pen in Part III, of the Court of General Sessions at 12.30 to-day.

Only two of them succeeded, but they are crime in a bank on Wall street. The other is John Kenney, charged wit having killed a man that he was robbing on the night of the 25th of June.

These prisoners and eleven others were brought to court for trial this morning. Hardy's case was adjourned for a week About 12.30 Judge Martine declared a recess of half an hour.

OH. YES! TEDDY MAY MARRY.

It Seems Quite Certain that Lillian Will Not Object.

The news comes from London that Teddy Solomon is treading ardently, if not closely, in the steps of his regal predecessar, the Scriptural Solomon of the thousand wives. Teddy is not a bit Scriptural, but he is very Solomonic, though, of course, a paltry half dozen of co-existent spouses is a mere bagatelle compared to the royal Hebrew drove. Teddy is about to take to his arms in a matrimonal embrace Kate Eversleigh, a bonnie burlesquer at the Avenue Theatre in London, and who has displayed her charms before New York footlights. Though Teddy would seem qualified to give an answer to the conundrum, "Is mar-riage a failure?" he is never quite bappy un-less he is some woman's husband, it would appear. He was anxious, however, to know whether his crstwhile American consort, Lil-ian Russell, would make things disagreeable or not at this new matrimonial move of his.

The Evening World reporter called on Abe Hummel this mercing and found the little man in the roomy inclosure of an office arm-chair. When asked about the new venarm-chair. When asked about the new ven-ture of Teddy into the matrimonial pasture he answered:

'Yes, that's so. I got a letter from Solomon yesterday, written from the Gasety Theatre, London, under date of Sept. 18.

"The marriage of Lillian to Teddy Solomon in Hoboken was no marriage, was it?" asked the reporter.

"No. His wife, a Miss Grey, was living and he knew it. When she heard of it she tried to get a divorce, but she could not get evidence of the marriage here. She secured her divorce, however, a year ago, and now Mr. Solomon is free to marry and Miss Russell is free to marry."

The reporter then sought the mother of the fair Lillian. She had transferred her household goods from 52 East Ninth street to 156 West Twenty-third street. On knocking at her door, after some delay, a young woman admitted the reporter into a cosy, well-furnished room. This young woman was Miss Hattle Leonard, Lillian's sister.

"Not a bit. She is glad to be rid of him.
But, just the same, if he shows up in America he can be imprisoned for ten years. The

"Yes, he is of importance," said Mrs.

"My experience with the genuine imported Carlebad Salt in powder form has been such that I may truly say that no remedy which I have employed has given me as much pleasure and profit as this particular one."
